The CATE Collection: Together in Collaborative Educational Leadership

An Advance HE Resource

Call for Papers

Dear CATE winners,

We are delighted to announce that a publication focusing on the experience and expertise of the CATE community will be published via Advance HE in Autumn 2021. This publication will be titled: The CATE Collection: Together in Collaborative Educational Leadership.

In-keeping with the collaborative nature of CATE, we are looking for contributions to this publication from previous CATE winners – these contributions will take the form of a chapter of between 3,000-5,000 words. A total of six contributor chapters will be published.

If you are interested in contributing to this publication please see below for proposal criteria, deadlines and further details of the publication.

With best wishes,

Dr Nicola Watchman Smith, on behalf of the CATE Collection Editorial Team.
(Head of Teaching Excellence Awards at Advance HE)

Proposals

Proposals of approx. 250 words plus a brief bio should be sent to CATE@advance-he.ac.uk by the deadline of Friday 30 April 2021. Please include within your proposal a brief list of key words to indicate the theme of your chapter and a working title for your chapter.

While chapters may be solo authored, we encourage proposals for co-authored pieces including student contributions/ student voice. Contributors must be previous CATE winners.

Timeframes for publication:

- Call for papers opens: Wednesday 31 March 2021
- Deadline for proposals: Friday 30 April 2021
- Deadline for chapter submission: Friday 16 July 2021
- Anticipated publication date: w/b 4th October 2021.

Publication overview:

Editors: Debbie Tolson, Nicola Watchman Smith, Dawne Irving-Bell, Miles Weaver

Purpose: A resource for all involved in higher and further education, who have a passion for innovation in learning and teaching that is evidence-informed, proven in practice and collaboratively shaped. The resource examines the what, why, how and who of the Collaborative Award for Teaching Excellence, known as CATE.

The authors are award winning academic and student CATE champions from across the UK. They are passionate leaders and change agents with inspiring stories to share. This publication will be a living and evolving resource; a story of what the CATE teams did and what they are doing now. It is about the things that go right and the disappointments - an emotionally intelligent tale with a ‘can do’ spirit, written for and by collaborative educational innovators.

Intended audience: Advance HE members, the CATE community, aspiring CATE applicants, student leaders/reps, HE senior leaders/managers.